Elder: a person sixty years of age or older.

Bodily Injury: substantial impairment of the physical condition, including, but not limited to, any burn, fracture of any bone, subdural hematoma, injury to any internal organ, or any injury which occurs as the result of repeated harm to any bodily function or organ, including human skin.

Serious Bodily Injury: bodily injury which results in a permanent disfigurement, protracted loss or impairment of a bodily function, limb or organ, or substantial risk of death.

Mistreatment: the use of medications or treatments, isolation, or physical or chemical restraints which harms or creates a substantial likelihood of harm.

Neglect: the failure to provide treatment or services necessary to maintain health and safety and which either harms or creates a substantial likelihood of harm.

Person with disability: a person with a permanent or long-term physical or mental impairment that prevents or restricts the individual's ability to provide for his or her own care or protection.

A person may be found to be a caretaker under this section only if a reasonable person would believe that such person's failure to fulfill such responsibility would adversely affect the physical health of such elder or person with a disability.

Wanton or reckless behavior occurs when a person is aware of and consciously disregards a substantial and unjustifiable risk that his acts, or omissions where there is a duty to act, would result in serious bodily injury or sexual abuse to an elder.
